

SHIP SUPERINTENDENTS' TRAINING COURSE

The course has been approved by IMAREST (the Institute of Marine Engineering, Science and Technology) and DNV-GL (Det Norske Veritas) and was first delivered in 2006. The course is managed by EMCS International Limited (also based on the Isle of Man). For more information about EMCS International Limited please visit www.emcs.co.im

In today's working environment, the ability to demonstrate a recognised level of training can be invaluable. This quality-assured course is primarily designed for recently appointed ship superintendents or aspiring entrants into the world of ship management or ship ownership - whether working for a ship owner or ship management company; or whether applying from a Deck, Engineering or Naval Architecture background. More experienced superintendents can also be accommodated. No prerequisite qualifications are needed and there is no specific bias towards "wet" or "dry" vessels.

The topics covered by the course will include:

- Different Roles and Responsibilities
- Changes in Reporting Lines
- Compliance Issues
- Regulatory Requirements
- Codes and Standards
- Managing Safety
- Emergency Response
- Media Response
- Budgeting and Cost Control
